PROVINCETOWN, MA, August 2, 2017 – Hutson Gallery is proud to present A Walk in the Dunes, an exhibition of paintings by Joe Trepiccione. This body of work, inspired by the Outer Cape landscapes, focuses particularly on the Provincetown Dunes. These dunes are an ever-changing landscape. They vary constantly as sunlight casts its shadows, both long and short, as their colors morph from hot to cool, and their vegetation from dense to sparse. They may be battered by the wind or gently nudged as they shift from season to season. Each dune has its own personality, sliding across horizons, constructing hills or digging valleys. They change as a cool tide creeps over a warm sandy marsh, or as the late afternoon sun sets and a cool blue shadow appears on a Beech Forest Hillside. Full of change, full of the unexpected.

Joe Trepiccione graduated from Paier College of Art / The Whitney School of Art, New Haven, Connecticut, where he studied the classic arts and specialized in the field of children's book illustration. Joe divides his time between Charlestown and Provincetown, Massachusetts. His studio, Trepiccione Design, Inc., produces graphic design, illustration, and concepts for special events. He is a listed artist on the Provincetown Artist Registry. Joe is a founding member of the Artists' Group of Charlestown, Inc. and the Stove Factory Gallery and Studios, and an active member of the Provincetown Art Association and Museum. His artwork has been shown throughout the Northeast. and most recently his work has been selected for two juried exhibitions in 2016 at Provincetown Art Association and Museum (PAAM). Trepiccione's favored mediums are drawing with pen/ink, watercolors, and oils, and his primary subjects are nature and architecture.
